

Daily Blog

Category: Alex

Published: Friday, 09 March 2007 17:52

It IS a NEW Day!

First day is over, it went by so fast! If I could rate the day on a scale of one to ten, it would clearly be a twelve! As you can imagine, we were all a little on edge (in a good way) last night, but today it came together like a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. Before we went on set this morning, were hanging in the hall listening to the audience and the sound of the crowd was electric. We felt the energy all the way up the stairs and through out the entire building. I thought you might enjoy our first official photo taken moments before the first show, taken by The Quilt Show's official photographer, Gregory Case.