

Daily Blog

Category: Alex

Published: Wednesday, 12 March 2008 14:23

Having Fun in PA with Bernina

We got our start, bright and early this morning (actually it was not bright, but still dark- lol) - One of the best things about traveling for Bernina is that I get to meet quilters all around the United States. It seems that no matter where I am, a friendlier group could not be found - but then of course that is because you are quilters! BTW: It was especially sweet to meet several TQS people - and for those of you who are just checking out the site for the first time - WELCOME!