

Daily Blog

Category: Website Features

Published: Thursday, 08 January 2015 11:06

Have You Heard About ArtCall?

ArtCall is a web-based registration, judging and exhibition system for art organizations, museums and galleries. Here you'll find current and upcoming entries for organizations like the Quilt Alliance, SAQA, and the Modern Quilt Guild, just to name a few.

Here's what they say about their site:

ArtCall gives artists the ability to enter juried shows completely on-line. Artist contact information, artwork descriptions and digital photos are uploaded directly by the artist into the exhibit database by filling out simple web-based forms. The system can also accommodate registration payment via PayPal or third party shopping cart.

Exhibit organizers can then access all the artist and artwork data directly via the web-based database. Administrators can edit the artist and artwork data as needed. Artist data can be exported directly from the system to prepare letters of acceptance and rejection.

ArtCall also provides an on-line system for jurying the entered artwork. Jurors, from any location can view the artwork photos, read the artist statements, make private comments, and then vote. The system provides a private set of ballots for each juror for each piece. Administrators can see the final tally and the number of votes cast for each work.

Learn More ▶