Anna and G on the Road: Heading Down the Road!

Not much to report this week. But, Anna and G on the road is heading down to the Road to California!! All 50 states and several foreign countries are represented during this amazing show that takes place at the Ontario Convention Center. In it's 25th year, this show is working on being the best ever! Although there will be over 225 vendors, I swear I am going just to view the quilts!

Just to give you a taste of the standard of quilts on display...here are a couple of previous winners!

Catherine Butterworth's quilt won Best Piecing 2018 and I can see why...I can only dream of piecing with such precision.

And this quilt was a winner in 2018 for Outstanding Artistry by Lenore Crawford!

The show runs from January 23 - 26, 2020 and the show guide is 12 pages long...which means 12 pages of fun! And as I look through the show guide I am excited to see the quilt that will garner the top prize of $10,000! That is a whole lot of vendor shopping for that winner, LOL.

I hope you will check back in next week when I will have some close ups of The Road to California!
